(Hairy (Husar 38) He; Carter Doctor, I would think...

(Remorse?)

We are what we pretend...

Doctorow: "We have had the bomb on our minds since 1945. It was first our weapon and then our diplomacy and now it's our economy."

[Cries kept us from seeing, even, that our biggest human priority has been to transcend this danger - to prevent any Hiroshima, or any more, ever...

How could we suppose that something so monstrously powerful would not, after years, compose our identity? The great globe we have made against our enemies is our culture, our basic culture - its logic, its faith, its vision."

Assembly of unit size, or  $\frac{1}{10}$  unit size; development of new weapons, tests;

Noting that what we have done — who have had anything to do with our war policies — still less what we have not done

relieves us of the burden of having participated, knowingly, in evil — often under the false guise of "lesser, necessary" evil.

So far, our Americans — except for some 64,000 and their relatives (58,000 + 5000 + 3000)
have gotten away with it.
